The fire occurred about midnight and nothng was saved from the building In the barn was Mr. Jam's mule, his wagon, plows and other farm implements and tools, besides a large quantity of corn, a lot of preserves. so gallons of syrup, harness etc. There was no insurance and the loss was a particularly heavy one, as Mr. Jain is just one among the common people whom God made so many of that He must love, and one, too, who could not well replace the loss. The gathering of Monday night was at Mr. Jain's house, and it was of his neighbors who came in a body to show practical sympathy. The bis purpose he ought to be something

There is the likelihood that Floraome is to lose the saw mill business of Messrs. Ewing & Co. through the inability of the firm to secure hickory timber. The mill has done a thriving business in sawing hickory for wagon work which it has shipped to northern manufacturers. But the available local supply has been exhausted and it has been found impracticable to have the timber shippd from a distance owing to the exessive freight rates. The railroad company does not make a rate on logs, but charges the same as for rough lumber.

What Florahome needs at the pres ent time, more, perhaps, than any other one thing, is to be saved from the slobberings of its self-constituted, over-zealous and superabundant boomer. It has been said that if a man is bound to lie, he ought, at least, to confine himself to such statements as bear the ear-marks of the river for a distance of three hundred drift miles. According to information received more than one hundred buildings at Presidio del Norte including the United States custom house, were washed away by the flood. The flood is said to have swept away whole settlements of houses occupied by Mexicans between Presidio del Norte and States custom that the propose he ought to be something beyond a mere wind-jammer.
